End of an Old News Era—Your Editor Saw It All

When your editor joined the El Dorado Daily News in April 1923, fresh out of the University of Missouri, our Associated Press wire operated on the Morse code. It was the same picture you saw in every daily newspaper of the time—the telegraph ticker backed up with an empty Prince Albert tobacco can to make the signal louder, and a poker-faced telegrapher copying the code into words on an old Underwood typewriter.

A good telegrapher would run about 8,000 words on the night shift. But in 1926 there was a revolution in Arkansas news telegraphy. The automated Teletype machine appeared. The Morse instrument, the Prince Albert can, and the poker-faced telegrapher all vanished. The new machine, operated with a single filer in the bureau office, transmitted 26,000 words against 8,000 for the old Morse system.

The original Morse filing point for Arkansas cities was Memphis. But the Teletype wire was filed from a new bureau set up in Little Rock.

Nostalgic as the old Morse system might seem today, it had its disadvantages. Although it was only 90 miles from El Dorado to Shreveport, with a common interest in oil developments, there was no such thing as a direct wire. A newsstory from Shreveport of interest to El Dorado had to be telegraphed first to the AP regional center in New Orleans, then to the regional office in Memphis—and with luck finally reached El Dorado.

Matters improved with the teletype, mainly because the system was three times faster than code.

In 1942 the late C. E. Palmer, Ray Kimball, and your own editor and others, started another revolution when we opened the Southwest Arkansas Teletypesetter Circuit. As the Teletype delivered words to the front office a machine known as a Re-Perforator punched out tape which ran the news Linotypes automatically. Now a single man keyboarding the news at a distant point was actually setting type without other human help.

It was the pioneer circuit of its kind, and as soon as World War II was over a statewide circuit was set up in Texas, and the system is universal today.

Getting back to the AP story, however, you read in The Star last Friday that the Little Rock bureau now only gathers the news, which is relayed to a Dallas computer center and distributed from there.

The essence is speed. You know what I mean if you have ever visited The Star's shop and watched our own high-speed computerized Compugraphic typesetters turn out galley proofs like lightning.

The AP wire opens for us shortly after midnight, timer-switches turn on the tape Re-Perforators simultaneously—and when the shop opens at 7 a.m. there is a mountain of tape waiting on it. Before 10 a.m., however, the computers have swallowed it all—and are abreast of the wire. It's unbelievable until you see it.

From 1923 to 1972—well, that's time enough for an era to have arrived and gone again.

Company Letters Prove Costly

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — How much does it cost a company to produce and mail a letter? If you say $3.20, the commonly quoted figure, you'll have lots of company but, according to one expert, you'll be dollars short of the answer.

David Swett, executive vice president of Bruce Payne & Associates, an international management consultant, put stop watches and slide rules to work and claims the cost ranges from about $6.50 all the way to $15.

"It is pretty difficult to refute the figures," he says, because

McClellan, Pryor Vote Consumer Bills

WASHINGTON (AP) — If the Consumer Federation of America's standards for voting records on consumer bills are a standard, two Arkansas congressmen have perfect scores.

The federation gave Rep. David Pryor, D-Ark., and Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., perfect scores for all the votes they cast on consumer bills. Both men failed to vote on one proposal.

The CFA said Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., voted right four times and wrong three times and gave these ratings on Arkansas' other three congressmen:

Rep. Bill Alexander, D-Ark., five right, two wrong; Rep. John Paul Hammerschmidt, R-Ark., two right and five wrong; Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., two right and two wrong.

The CFA said "right" votes would have been against permitting interstate shipment of meat and poultry without federal inspection, against attempts to delete child development program provisions from economic opportunity amendments, against prohibiting the National Legal Services Corp. from using funds for legal aid.

Russia Recognizes Bangladesh

By DENNIS NEEDLE
Associated Press Writer
DACCIA (AP) — Czechoslovakia quickly followed the Soviet Union today in recognizing Bangladesh and other nations were expected to follow suit.

CTK, the Czechoslovak news agency, said the Prague government recognized Bangladesh as an independent and sovereign state and wants to exchange ambassadors.

Officials of the young nation expressed great pleasure at Moscow's recognition.

The Soviet consul-general to Dacca conveyed his government's decision to Prime Minister Mujibur Rahman in Tangail, where he was attending a ceremony. President Nikolai V. Podgorny and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin telegraphed Sheikh Mujib: "We convey to you and to the people of Bangladesh friendly wishes of peace, well-being and success in consolidating the state sovereignty of your country, in building a peaceful democratic republic."

"It is quite natural that the Soviet Union has come out with this great decision to accord us due recognition," Foreign Minister A. S. Azad told newsmen. He added that he hoped recognition from Washington would come "sooner than expected."

Labor Talking Tough

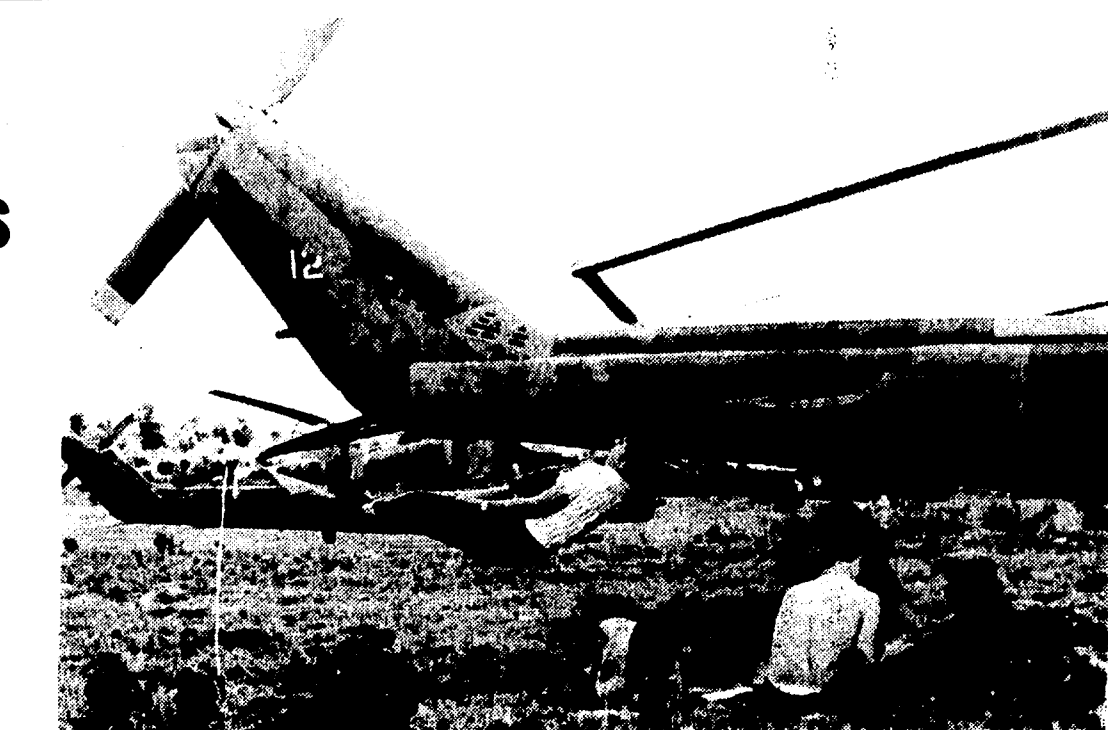

By NEIL GILBRIDE
AP Labor Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Organized labor is talking tough against President Nixon's proposal for a special law to end the long West Coast dock strike but is privately worried the bill might pass.

"We will fight it. We are not going to buy compulsory arbitration in any form," said a spokesman for the 13.6-million-member AFL-CIO.

Nixon's bill, if enacted by Congress, would end the strike, send workers back to their jobs and create a three-man arbitration board to settle the dispute within 40 days with a binding ruling effective for 18 months.

Many members of Congress with big labor blocs in their districts generally shy away from proposals for forced labor settlements, especially in election years.

But AFL-CIO sources noted that the walkout by the Inter-

Books Closed on First Trade Deficit in Years

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government closes its books today on the nation's 1971 trade deficit, the first in 78 years, amid official forecasts that the picture will improve this year.

The Commerce Department prepared the final figures on the differences between what the nation's businesses sell overseas and what foreign enterprises ship into the country.

The deficit through the first 11 months of 1971 was $1.875 billion, a massive $4.7-billion turnaround in the balance-of-trade figures from the same period in 1970.

But the Nixon administration says the picture should get better as 1972 wears on, with a chance that the traditional surplus in foreign trade will be restored before this year is over.

One reason is the new monetary agreement in which the dollar is worth less and foreign currencies worth more in exchange markets, a situation that makes imports more expensive and U.S. exports cheaper in foreign markets.

At first, the monetary agreement may actually hurt the nation's trade statistics, a high Treasury official said. Imports having a higher dollar cost are continuing to enter the country on the basis of business commitments and plans made before the currency realignment of last December.

But the official, Jack F. Bennett, deputy Treasury undersecretary for monetary affairs, told a Senate subcommittee: "The U.S. trade balance should be reflecting substantial changes in relative prices and cost are increasingly reflected in new market decisions."

Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans said the nation has a fighting chance, as he put it, to convert the huge 1971 deficit into a surplus.

U.S. Trying to Cut on Farm Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is trying again to cut back federal spending of a popular 36-year-old farm conservation program called REAP.

Plans for the REAP reduction were disclosed Monday for the fiscal year beginning July 1. The letters stand for Rural Environmental Assistance Program, until a year ago known as "ACP" or the Agricultural Conservation Program.

The new budget asks for a 1973 program totaling $140 million, a reduction of $55.5 million from 1972. The program has been a favorite target for administration budget slicers in recent years.

Each time, however, Congress has brought pressure to restore all or part of the money.

The 1972 plan, for example,

Scholarships Offered

The American Legion Auxiliary Department of Arkansas is once more offering scholarships with March 15 as the deadline for application. Three scholarships are to be awarded on the state level this year—one in the amount of $500 and two Nurses Scholarships in the amount of $250 each. These are gift scholarships—not loans. Also, one $150 gift scholarship will be offered by the local Unit 12. All will follow the same rules.

Candidates for these awards shall be: children of veterans of World War I, World War II, Korea or Vietnam; seniors in high school or graduates of an accredited high school who have not attended a school of higher learning; in financial need to continue their education.

Applications for these scholarships are available at Hope High School in the principal's office. For more information contact Bobby B. Whitmarsh, Hope High Principal, or Mrs. Joe Jones, Unit 12 Auxiliary President.

Previous winners have included Don Williams on the local level, Sharon Frith and David Grummett on the state level, and Gayle Williams and Judy Croom on the national level.

Withdrawal Date Offer Said Near

By MICHAEL PUTZEL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amid growing indications President Nixon is preparing to offer a date for total withdrawal of all U.S. troops in exchange for release of American prisoners of war, the White House announced the chief executive will make a nationally televised and radio broadcast foreign policy statement tonight.

Presidential press secretary Ronald Ziegler said Nixon will deliver the statement from his oval office at 8:30 p.m. EST. Ziegler refused to say what specific area of foreign policy would be covered.

The announcement that the White House had sought and gained national television and radio time came as indications mounted that a significant shift was being contemplated in the U.S. stance in the Paris peace talks on Vietnam.

Ziegler declined repeatedly to expand upon his three-sentence announcement, and would not discuss the widespread reports of a Vietnam trade offer.

He told reporters, however, that "I would move with some caution as to what you say in your reports prior to the President's statement tonight."

Pressed for an interpretation of his cautioning remarks, Ziegler said "I would be careful not to move with your reports focused totally ... on the speculation that has occurred."

Ziegler also refused to say whether any new development had prompted the President's request for television time, or say when he decided to make the request.

The possibility of such a trade offer before the November presidential election has been mentioned often in recent weeks, but Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., said Monday night he had heard the offer will come "very soon."

Brooke, a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, told the Greater Boston Young Republicans Club he is so certain he could almost predict it.

And a high-level State Department source said Brooke "appears to be on sound ground," but he would not discuss it further.

A spokesman for the State Department specifically refused to back down the Brooke report but would not confirm it either.

U.S. Cool to UN Financial Plight

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has made its cool attitude toward the United Nations even more evident by its lack of response to Secretary General Kurt Waldheim's effort to raise some quick money for the debt-ridden organization.

Waldheim, in office only a month, spent all of Monday with President Nixon, Secretary of State William P. Rogers and congressional leaders, going over the U.N.'s financial suffering.

Although Waldheim told newsmen the response to his position was positive from the President on down, U.S. officials indicated the Austrian diplomat may have been wearing rose-colored glasses.

"The United States isn't interested in bailing the U.N. out of its hole this time," one government official said. "We're going to wait for the people who dug the hole."

In more diplomatic tones State Department spokesman Charles Bray made the same point Monday when he told newsmen it is too early to characterize the U.S. response to Waldheim's request that U.N. members advance $20 million in contributions to tide the world body over this year.

The administration first "would like to have the opportunity to see the response from other members" before deciding its own course of action, Bray said.

He added that the large U.N. debt is more the responsibility of other members, particularly those he indicated were to blame for the world crises that led to expensive U.N. peace-keeping missions.

The debt, estimated variously at $65 million by Waldheim and $150 million by Bray, is largely the result of failure by the Soviet Union, several East European nations and France to pay their share of the peace-keeping costs.

Waldheim said he is seeking support for his plan from all other members and only came to Washington first because the United States is the host nation to the U.N.

Although the Nixon administration is aloof to the $20-million request, it is sympathetic to Waldheim's general effort to bring some financial order to the U.N., which is near self-proclaimed insolvency.

U.S. Planes Intensify Missile Site Raids

By RICHARD PYLE
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — American warplanes attacked three more antiaircraft missile radar sites in North Vietnam, the U.S. Command announced today, as the air war continued to intensify over North Vietnam and along its border with Laos.

The three so-called protective reaction strikes—one Sunday and two Monday—raised to eight the number announced in the last three days, the most for any comparable period since the bombing halt more than three years ago.

Five of the attacks, including two announced today, have been carried out against missile sites and radar installations along the Laotian frontier where, U.S. military officials say, Hanoi has recently concentrated the bulk of its antiaircraft missile batteries in an attempt to protect the flow of supplies through the mountain passes into Laos.

In two of the most recent attacks, Navy A7 Skyhawk jets fired missiles at radar sites near the Ban Karai Pass, 45 miles north of the demilitarized zone, after detection equipment indicated they were tracking the American planes.

In the third strike, Air Force F105 fighter-bombers escorting an RF4 reconnaissance plane attacked a missile radar site near the coastal city of Dong Hoi, 45 miles north of the DMZ.

Results of the three strikes were not known, a spokesman said, but none of the U.S. planes was reported hit.

Ground fighting was sporadic in South Vietnam, with 23 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong reported killed, but the Cambodian command reported the first big battle in Cambodia in more than a month.

The Cambodians claimed they killed 18 of the enemy in the fighting 13 miles east of Phnom Penh, on the edge of Veihar Suor marshes. Two Cambodians were reported killed and 24 wounded. The fighting ended at nightfall Monday, and allied bombers apparently hit an enemy ammunition dump in the village of Dong Serei, near the battleground, and touched off a series of explosions.

Meanwhile, a Viet Cong broadcast promised to reward all South Vietnamese who help overthrow the Saigon government and defeat President Nixon's Vietnamization program. Amnesty also was promised to officials, military commanders and soldiers who defected.

Jap War Survivor Found in Jungle

AGANA, Guam (AP) — A man who told officials he is a former Japanese army sergeant and has been hiding in the jungle since World War II says, "It all seems like a dream."

"I keep thinking I'll wake up soon," Shoichi Yokoi said as he met with newsmen after two fishermen spotted him and subdued him near his cave home on Monday.

Guam Gov. Carlos Gamacho said first investigation showed no reason to disbelieve Yokoi's claim to be a Japanese army survivor, but Gamacho said he knew of no way to establish the claim conclusively.

With Gamacho standing at his side and honorary Japanese Consul James Hintaku serving as an interpreter, Yokoi described his life since Americans landed an invasion force in 1944.

He said he and nine other soldiers fled into the jungle in 1944 and the group gradually dwindled to two other men and himself. He said he had been alone since the two others died within a short time eight years ago.

The 5-foot-4 Yokoi said he is 58. Doctors said he weighed only 90 pounds and was anemic, but was otherwise in surprisingly good physical condition.

Yokoi said he was afraid to come out of hiding because he didn't know what would happen to him. He said he subsisted on fish, coconuts and wild vegetation.

Camacho said he will return Yokoi to Japan as soon as possible.

In Japan, officials of Aichi prefecture reported that official notification of Yokoi's death was made to his father, Eihiro, on July 30, 1945, two weeks before Japan surrendered.

Eihiro died 23 years ago at the age of 68 and his mother, Tsuru, 14 years ago at 70. Shoichi had no brothers or sisters, but Osamu Yokoi, 42, who was adopted by Shoichi's mother 17 years ago, said she never believed the army's report of her son's death.

"If his mother had lived, she would be extremely happy," he added.

Bunzo Minagawa, 52, another Japanese veteran who was found on Guam 12 years ago, said he lived with Yokoi and eight others for about a month in the jungle 28 years ago but separated because of fear that a large group would be hard to hide.

"I can't believe he lived alone in the jungles," said Minagawa, who spent 16 years on the island in the company of another Japanese soldier, Tadashi Ito, 51.

Wants Plan to Slash Welfare Roll

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — State Rep. Bernice Kizer of Fort Smith asked the Arkansas Legislative Council Monday to study the New York method of issuance of welfare checks which has seemed to have cut down on the numbers on the welfare rolls.

Mrs. Kizer said instead of mailing the checks to recipients, they are required to pick up their checks at local welfare offices. She told the council this helped the welfare offices identify who was receiving the checks and had cut back on the number issued.

In other action, the council asked the state Department of Pollution Control and Ecology to study the problems faced by communities in complying with the department's new anti-poll regulations and determine if legislation is needed to raise funds to help communities.

Referred to the State and Local Government Committee were requests for a study of strengthening the state's conflict of interest laws and for an investigation to determine benefits that had accrued as a result of various studies conducted in the past few years by state agencies with research grants from the federal government.

Persian Sheik Is Killed by Cousin

SHARJAH (AP) — The ruler of the little Persian Gulf emirate of Sharjah, Sheik Khalid, was stabbed to death early today in an attempted coup led by a cousin.

The police clamped a curfew on the sheikdom. No traffic moved, and communications with the outside world were limited.

Sheik Khalid's cousin, a former ruler named Sheik Sakr bin Sultan, drove into the palace grounds Monday with two carloads of Bedouins, occupied the palace and took Sheik Khalid hostage.

Led by the ruler's brother, Sheik Sakr bin Mohammed, police and troops of the Union of Arab Emirates surrounded the blue and white building, and after an exchange of shots rushed it today. They found the ruler dead, stabbed by a long curved Bedouin dagger known as a khanjar.

The president of the Union of Arab Emirates, Sheik Zaid bin Sultan of Abu Dhabi, announced that Sheik Sakr bin Sultan and those associated with him had surrendered. The president also reported that four other persons, who were not identified, were killed with Sheik Khalid.

President Zaid called a meeting of the union's executive council in Dubai.

Sakr bin Sultan was deposed in 1965 and had been living in Cairo. He blamed his overthrow on the British. Sharjah was a British protectorate until British forces withdrew from the Persian Gulf last month. Then Sharjah joined five other sheikdoms along the gulf that had been British protectorates and formed the Union of Arab Emirates.

Rep. Shirley Chisholm of New York, who has been informally seeking the Democratic presidential nomination through much of her freshman term as the nation's first black congresswoman, makes it official today.

The fiery former schoolteacher from the Bedford-Stuyvesant slums scheduled a news conference at the Concord Baptist church in Brooklyn to announce her candidacy.

Mrs. Chisholm, 47, who went to Congress after serving four years in the state legislature, has made no bones about her intentions in numerous campaign speeches around the country for the past several months.

On Jan. 2, she told a Broad-

She was equally frank about her intentions at Jacksonville, Fla., a few days later when she described herself as the only "unique candidate" in the Democratic race and vowed she wouldn't drop out of the competition she hadn't yet officially entered.

Saying she had been urged to drop out to avoid splitting the liberal vote with New York Mayor John V. Lindsay and Sen. George S. McGovern of South Dakota, Mrs. Chisholm told a Florida college rally: "I'm black and I'm a woman. I can go into New Mexico and Texas and talk to the Chicanos in their own language. May Bar Newsmen

By LEE LINDER

Associated Press Writer

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) —

The judge at the conspiracy trial of the Rev. Philip Berrigan and six other antiwar activists has threatened to bar newsmen from the jury selection process and impose secrecy on the proceedings.

"I'm not telling the news media what to do," U.S. District Court Judge R. Dixon Herman said Monday as the jury selection began.

He urged, however, that "all names, questions and responses be kept secret until the jury is sworn, and then you can publish it whenever you see fit."

"I think it is in the province of the court, if you violate it (the request), to continue the voir dire in camera"—questioning prospective jurors secretly in chambers.

Herman said early publication could prejudice his efforts to obtain an unbiased, unharassed jury.

The high-ceilinged, modern courtroom seats 80 spectators. Three newsmen now are permitted to cover the jury selection proceedings—representatives of the Associated Press, United Press International and the Harrisburg Patriot-News.

After the first day the original panel of 175 was trimmed to 82, with 38 of those excused, claiming they had formed prejudicial opinions and could not render an impartial judgment.

Berrigan and the other defendants are accused of plotting to kidnap presidential adviser Henry Kissinger, bomb heat tunnels under certain Washington, D.C. buildings, smuggle contraband in and out of the federal prison, and raid draft board offices in various cities around the nation.

A group of 46 men and women, now seated in the courtroom, answer more general questions from the judge today before individual examination by lawyers begins.

The 48-year-old Berrigan, a self-styled revolutionary priest, told a newsmen during a courtroom lull, before federal marshals stopped him from talking, that there was indeed a discussion among some of the defendants of a possible kidnapping.

"There was no planning," he insisted, however. Then he added:

"Part of any discussion, if it is to be real, is to investigate the feasibility of it" and Berrigan indicated that members of his peace movement apparatus had done that. "Millions of people have these kinds of ideas at some time or another," Berrigan said in the first interview he has given in nearly two years. "It doesn't mean they would act or want to act, but why shouldn't they think about it and maybe do something about it and even investigate it?"

Equal Employment Battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — Opposing sides maneuvered to put up maximum voting strength today in a Senate battle over enforcement of equal employment legislation. Southern conservatives and pro-administration senators blunted a liberal victory in round one of the fight.

The absence of some of the Senate's presidential candidates could be a deciding factor, just as it was Monday when voting first went one way and then another.

The action centers around an amendment by Sen. Peter Dominick, R-Colo., to deny the Equal Opportunity Commission authority to enforce findings of job discrimination based on race, religion, sex or national origin.

Dominick's Amendment instead provided for the commission to bring suits in the federal courts whenever it finds evidence of discrimination. The Nixon administration, with the support of major industries, favors enforcement through the courts. The House has approved a bill providing for court enforcement.

Civil-rights and labor leaders, however, have urged Congress to give EEOC power to issue cease-and-desist orders against firms. The agency, which handles complaints of discrimination in private industry, is now limited to persuasion and conciliation.

Dominick's amendment was first defeated Monday, 43-41 vote, with most Democrats and liberals lining up against conservatives.

Several hours later Sen. William Saxbe, R-Ohio, moved to reconsider the motion, and the proposal carried 40 to 39.

One reason for the switch was that two Democratic presidential candidates, Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota and Henry Jackson of Washington, had left the floor after voting against Dominick's amendment when it was first defeated.

After Saxbe's motion carried, those who favor giving EEOC the new powers stalled a decisive second vote on Dominick's amendment to gain time to reform battle lines.

Dominick said power to enforce the anti-job-discrimination law is needed but "the way to do it is not by overloading an agency that can't keep up with its work now."

Dominick said the commission has a backlog of 32,000 cases and takes from 18 to 24 months to dispose of a complaint. He said enforcement through the courts would be quicker and fairer.

No Surprises as Special Session Set for Feb. 7

By ROBERT SHAW

Associated Press Writer

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov.

Dale Bumpers sent state legislators a 40-item special session call Monday that contained no major surprises and apparently few, if any, controversy laden issues.

Bumpers' proclamation for the session summons the legislators to Little Rock at 9 a.m. Feb. 7.

Chief items in the call include legislation to secure an additional $12 million in federal funds for programs of the Department of Social and Rehabilitative Services, consideration of the problems in selecting the state's delegation to the Democratic National Convention and extension of the political filing period from two to three weeks.

Many of the items are financial and housekeeping matters. Bumpers proposed raising the ceiling on the amount of state funds that can be invested in government securities, appropriating funds so the prison itself can farm lands of the Tucker Intermediate Reformatory that have been under lease to a private concern and funding of the Arkansas Drug Abuse Authority with accompanying legislation to clarify and correct errors in the 1971 drug control act.

Bumpers included a $152,185 supplemental appropriation for operations of Arkansas AM&N College. But he did not pose the controversial topic of whether to repeal the pending merger of the predominantly black school into the University of Arkansas.

State Republican officials have charged that the main purpose for calling the special session is to straighten out the Democrats' delegate selection problems, but have said they would support the "partisan" call if it included "meaningful" legislation.

Bumpers did not put in the call that of the more controversial items supported by the Republicans, but included two proposals the GOP wanted—a change in the 1971 statute requiring election officials to reside in the precinct they serve and extension of the filing period, a proposal also urged on the governor by Secretary of State Kelly Bryant.

COMPANY LETTERS

entive time, $1.43 secretary, 10 cents filing.

At 60 per cent efficiency, which is "pretty typical," the cost is $4.27. And at 35 per cent, and "there are lots of environments in which this is the case," the labor cost soars to $7.31.

That's not all. To these labor costs must be added fixed charges for rent, heat, light, depreciation, interest and so on. Based on long experience, Swett states that such charges generally equal the cost of direct labor.

In addition, there are material costs, mainly for stationery and stamps, making the totals $6.39 at 85 per cent efficiency, $8.91 at 60 per cent, and $14.99 at 35 per cent.

What is wrong at the company which pays $14.99 per letter? Misuse of today's very expensive machines and misapplication of individual effort are among the chief faults.

In a modern office, Swett says, a letter should be typed by a typist while the secretary performs more important work.

The reason for this becomes obvious when you look at some of the equipment used by large corporations in producing a letter. It might include $15,000 worth of dictating equipment, tape driven typewriters and cathode ray tubes. Every second of idleness is waste.

Doctors Plan New Hospital

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A firm formed in 1961 by 42 doctors and dentists says it will build a 300-bed hospital at Little Rock.

Construction on the $11 million facility will begin this fall with completion of the project set for late 1973 or early 1974. Duane S. King, executive vice president of the Little Rock Land Co., made the announcement Saturday.

"This hospital is a necessary solution to what is becoming intolerable pressure on existing facilities," he said. King said the eight-story hospital will be constructed adjacent to the Doctors Building and that expansion of the Doctors Building will begin this spring.

The hospital is to be built with private funds and will be operated for profit.

Doting Parents

Ethel, hesitant about marrying Fred, decided to put a blunt question to his mother and father. "I love your son," she said, "but I have doubts about his health. Tell me frankly, is he well?"

They assured her that he was in perfect health. But, as they well knew, Fred was suffering from both tuberculosis and drug addiction. Ethel found out the truth shortly after the marriage, and promptly got an annulment.

But she did not stop there. She followed up with a damage suit against Fred's parents. Grounds: fraud.

At the trial, the parents claimed they could not be expected to make unpleasant disclosures about their own child. Nevertheless, the court held them liable. The judge said their deceit was too deliberate and too important to be excused.

This is an unusual case. But it illustrates that doting parents do not have an unlimited right to favor their child at someone else's expense.

A comparable situation arises when parents are accused of not unfairly pushing a marriage but of unfairly breaking one up. For example:

A mother was sued by her daughter-in-law for alienation of her son's affections. It seems that the mother had waged a relentless campaign against the marriage, not so much because she loved her son as because she hated his wife. The court decided this too was outside the parental privilege and ordered the mother to pay damages.

Of course, the law does give parents a considerable amount of freedom to speak their mind. In another case, a youthful husband who was having marital difficulties went to his father for a man-to-man talk. The father urged him to get a divorce, and he did.

Could the father be held liable by the divorced wife for alienation of affections? A court said he could not, because his interference was within the reasonable limits of a parent's role. As one judge put it: "Times of stress naturally bring parent and child together

The Generation Gap

Mom's Too Suspicious

Dear Helen And Sue:

My mother yells at me when I burn incense or a scented candle. She says it is very harmful and the same as smoking marijuana. She thinks it leads to narcotics addiction, and that I already must be on something, just because I occasionally like incense. Honest, I don't take drugs!

Mom also screams there must be something wrong with me because I do yoga exercises sometimes.

I am 16 and not allowed to go out. She says my job is to study and nothing else. Please try to unravel her set ideas.—LISA

Dear Lisa:

Unraveling your mother's rigid conclusions would be like melting a rock. She's prime proof of the old saying, "A little knowledge is a dangerous thing."

Look, Mama: pot smokers sometimes burn incense and scented candles to hide the odor, but all incense lovers aren't druggies....including Sue and me!—HELEN

Dear Lisa:

Your mother "isn't wrapped too tight"! Many kids these days are high on incense, scented candles, yoga, and yes—going out when you're 16 and ready. That doesn't mean they get high on drugs, or can't be trusted.

She may call me a spoiled brat, but I'll have to say, "Get your head on straight, Mom, unless you want to lose your daughter."—SUE

Dear Rap:

The letter written by "Fearful" made ME fearful. I hope she hasn't got many backers!

VD isn't something you punish people for by exposing their names or sending them to jail. True, these rigid rules might decrease the epidemic, but think of the misery they would cause!

There are other ways to bring VD down, and the best is education—getting the word to everyone that a free examination at the county or city clinic can save a lot of suffering not only for you but for others you might have infected. And it's completely secret!

As long as we keep on assuming that venereal disease is sin with a capital S, we'll never conquer it.—FOR SENSIBLE FIGHTING

Dear Helen and Sue:

I feel deep sympathy for anyone who has contracted VD, but especially for those non-promiscuous people who made one mistake—as I did. My boy friend is not a depraved person—far from it. But he's human. And I'm human, too.

Luckily, he recognized the symptoms and, though I didn't have any, he insisted that I be examined. My parents and a few friends were very understanding. Unlike many people, they realized it could happen to anyone—even them.

By all means, there should be more education, more campaigns, more free clinics, and a lot more awareness that VD is a disease, not retribution!—FORMER VICTIM OF VD

Dear Readers:

The worst thing about both gonorrhea and syphilis is that the symptoms are so mild (especially in women) that they often go undetected, and they disappear completely after a short while, even though the diseases continue their destructive course—and carriers transmit them to others.

If you have the smallest suspicion that you have contracted venereal disease, get to a doctor fast! And remember, VD clinics are not only free, but your parents (in most states) need not be notified unless you give permission.

For further information on venereal diseases write to the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Washington, D.C. or your County Health Department. —HELEN

Will Retire at Age 19

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Debbie Meyer says she's over the hill as a competitive swimmer at the age of 19.

She announced her retirement Monday after a disappointing season in 1971 that saw younger girls come along and break the last of her national and world swimming records.

Debbie (they called her "Peanut" because she liked peanut butter) hit her prime at 18, winning three Gold Medals in the 1968 Olympic Games at Mexico City.

Mentally, she had been aiming at the 1972 Games at Munich, but physically "my arms didn't jibe."

"Dad always told me when swimming got to be a daily chore and no fun to hang up my suit," said Debbie, who swam competitively ever since she was 12 years old under

Hockey League All Star Game Tonight

By PAT THOMPSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The Silver Anniversary of the National Hockey League All-Star game tonight will be without two of the game's fabled names, Gordie Howe and Jean Beliveau.

But Richard Martin of the Buffalo Sabres, at 20 the youngest player in the 8:35 p.m., EST, game at Minnesota's Metropolitan Sports Center, is drawing as much attention as a Howe or Beliveau.

The 5-foot-11, 165-pound left wing, leading candidate for rookie of the year, is scoring at a greater clip than any first-year player before him.

Howe got seven goals his first season, Beliveau 13, Bobby Orr 23 and Bobby Hull 13 in their first seasons.

With 33 goals and 22 assists, Martin appears certain to break the rookie scoring record set in 1970-71 by teammate Gil Perreault, 1971 winner of the Calder Cup rookie of the year award after scoring 38 goals and 34 assists.

Martin was drafted out of junior hockey last season after he set a record 71 goals in the Ontario Hockey Association.

Martin said he has felt little pressure as goal totals soar. "The most pressure I had was after about 10 games," said Martin. "I was doing okay, but we weren't winning. I just didn't feel right. I was pressing, trying to do too many things. But (Buffalo coach) Punch Imlach noticed it and said, 'Look relax, play your game and don't worry about anything.' That's when it started rolling and rolling."

Martin's 55 points rank him seventh in NHL scoring, and put him on tonight's powerful East offensive that is led by Boston's Phil Esposito with 39 goals and 41 assists and New York's Jean Ratelle with 28 goals and 51 assists.

The West, trying to take its second straight victory after winning 2-1 in Boston last year, is dominated by nine Chicago Black Hawks. Bobby Hull is the West scoring leader with 35 goals and 27 assists.

Also joining Martin as first-year all-stars are the East's Rod Seiling of New York; Paul Henderson, Toronto, and starting goalie Ken Dryden, Montreal, and the West's Garry Unger, St. Louis; Ross Lonsberry, Los Angeles, and Simon Nolet, Philadelphia.

Chicago shutout artist Tony Esposito and Minnesota's Gump Worsley will share goal-tending honors for the west.

West Coach Billy Reay of Chicago is expected to start Hull, Stan Mikita of Chicago and Bill Goldsworthy of Minnesota at forwards; Esposito at goal, and Chicago defensemen Pat Stapleton and Bill White.

Al MacNeil, the 1971 Montreal coach now in the minors, is expected to open with Dryden in goal, the high-scoring New York front line of Vic Hadfield, Ratelle and Rod Gilbert and defensemen Bobby Orr of Boston and Brad Park of New York. Gilles Villeneuve of New York is the other goalie.

Texarkana's Barber Is Winner of Tucson Open

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer
TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Portly, aging Miller Barber had just finished a marathon, 21-hole playoff and he was sighing in weariness with perspiration glistening on his bald head and streaming down beside the aviators' glasses he always wears.

"I was just trying to get in—just trying to finish," the 40-year-old veteran said Monday after out-lasting George Archer in pro golf's longest playoff in more than a quarter of a century.

Barber, who had to shoot a fourth-round 65 Sunday to gain a spot in the playoff, rolled in an 18-foot birdie putt from below the cup on the 93rd hole to take down the title and the $30,000 first prize in the Dean Martin-Tucson Open golf tournament.

"We were both about to fall down," Barber said in a brief interview before catching a plane home to Sherman, Tex. to see his new son.

Archer, a 32-year-old former Masters champion and one of the hottest players now on the tour, picked up $17,100 for second place. He left immediately after finishing and was not available for comment.

It was the second extra round in three weeks for the 6-foot-6 Archer, who beat Dave Hill and Tommy Aaron in a nationally televised 18-hole affair for the Glen Campbell-Los Angeles Open crown in the first tournament on the long pro schedule.

And it was the longest playoff since Lloyd Mangrum went 36 holes to beat Byron Nelson and Vic Ghezzi for the 1946 United States Open title at Canterbury in Cleveland. That one was set up differently.

After they tied at the end of 18, another 18 was scheduled. This time an additional 18 was scheduled—instead of the usual sudden death on Sunday—because of the national television contract. Then, when they tied with par 72s over the first 18, they went to sudden death.

Both parred the first two sudden death holes, the 15th and 16th, before Barber nailed down his seventh tour title on the par-three 17th.

The eligibility committee meets Wednesday in Tokyo. Aside from questions of barring skiers because of past commercialism, Brundage added that athletes who bring advertisements into the Winter Olympics opening Feb. 3 in Sapporo, northern Japan, will be ineligible.

"There are only two different kinds of sports contestants," he said. "The one who loves sports as a recreation and the other for financial reasons."

There has been some talk of holding a separate world ski championships at Sapporo if the dispute between Brundage and the International Ski Federation over skiers' eligibility cannot be straightened out.

country and they didn't run us off the court. Before the season ends we're going to knock off some of those biggies."

Jim Chones paced Marquette with 24 points. Gary Novak of Notre Dame scored 25.

Meanwhile, fourth-ranked Louisville walloped North Texas State 95-72 for its 13th consecutive victory following a season-opening one-point loss to Florida.

The Cardinals, now 3-0 in the Missouri Valley Conference, held North Texas scoreless for nearly the first four minutes while racing to a 9-0 lead. Louisville's Jim Price led all scorers with 23 points, while teammate Ron Thomas scored 17 points and grabbed 22 rebounds.

Brigham Young, the No. 13 team, routed Athletics in Action 109-59 as 6-foot-11 Kresimir Cosic scored 17 points, snared 18 rebounds and blocked 11 shots.

Northern Illinois, rated 19th, registered its 10th consecutive victory and 11th in 12 games, handing Central Michigan its worst setback in eight years 93-64. Sophomore Jim Bradley led Northern Illinois with 25 points.

Eau Claire of Wisconsin, ranked the nation's top small college team, suffered its first loss in 14 games, bowing to North Dakota 73-70. Craig Skarperud's 22 points led North Dakota, now 12-4. Mike Ratliff had 25 points and Frank Schade 24 for Eau Claire.

Jim Andrews poured in 34 points as Kentucky overpowered Vanderbilt 106-80 in a rough game. Kentucky's Larry Stemper was ejected from the game after decking the Commodores' Jan Van Breda Kolff.

Silent on Olympic Eligibility

TOKYO (AP) — Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, said today the Olympic movement "is an ideal spirit to combat commercialism and politics," but he shed no light on which skiers might be kept out of next week's Olympics on grounds of commercialism.

"We are living in a materialistic world," Brundage told some 100 newsmen at a Japan Press Club luncheon.

Asked specifically about some skiers, including top Austrian competitors, Brundage said, "I will reserve my comment until after the eligibility committee meeting. I still don't know which athlete is competing in what event."

The eligibility committee meets Wednesday in Tokyo. Aside from questions of barring skiers because of past commercialism, Brundage added that athletes who bring advertisements into the Winter Olympics opening Feb. 3 in Sapporo, northern Japan, will be ineligible.

"There are only two different kinds of sports contestants," he said. "The one who loves sports as a recreation and the other for financial reasons."

There has been some talk of holding a separate world ski championships at Sapporo if the dispute between Brundage and the International Ski Federation over skiers' eligibility cannot be straightened out.

43 Points in Losing Cause

CHICAGO (AP) — Golden State's Jeff Mullins is not an alibi artist. The Warrior guard netted 43 points in a losing cause Monday night but passed it off saying:

"I had a hot hand against the Bulls tonight, and I thought we all played unselfishly. But when you win 11 straight, you don't have to alibi to the National Basketball Association."

The Bulls ended the Warriors' 11-game skien, which extended back before Christmas, with a 110-105 victory.

The action was the only game played Monday in either the National or American Basketball Associations.

Coach Dick Motta quick to praise the performance of his Bulls.

"When we shoot the way we did, we are almost unbeatable," Motta said. "We took 99 shots to just 80 for the Warriors."

Patriots Get 4 Selections

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — The New England Patriots traded away their first five selections in the 1972 National Football League draft, but they've managed to re-acquire four selections.

The Patriots were assured of choices in the first five rounds, with the exception of the fourth, as NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle completed compensation Monday for the loss of Phil Olsen to the Los Angeles Rams.

Rozelle ruled that the Patriots should receive the Rams' third round choice in the draft Feb. 1. Earlier, the Patriots had been awarded the Rams' first round choice.

The Patriots had surrendered their first five draft choices, including the first in signing Joe Kapp from the Minnesota Vikings in 1970. However, they bounced back into the draft market by getting the first choice from Los Angeles, the second round pick from Kansas City, the third round selection from San Francisco and the fifth round draft from Oakland.

Olsen was the Patriots' No. 1 choice in the 1970 draft and then sat out the season with a knee injury suffered in the All-Star training camp. He was declared a free agent on a technicality last July and signed with the Rams.

Rozelle awarded the Patriots the Rams' No. 1 choice, 17th in the draft. To complete compensation, he gave the New England the Rams' third round pick.

41st Monte Carlo Rally

MONTE CARLO (AP) — Europe's star rally drivers were setting out early today for the 26-hour non-stop circuit in the French Alps that marks the start of serious competition in the 41st Monte Carlo Auto Rally.

There were 206 survivors of the 264 cars which started from all over Europe Friday, including a handful of amateurs in a special class tagging along on the tail of the rally proper, just for the fun.

For the top drivers, highly paid professionals, eight special speed trials over a total 167 miles of mountain passes were the key to the night's work. Seconds gained on these individual speed runs decide the winner of the rally.

Weather conditions were unusually mild, but there was a possibility of icy roads and maybe snow—the more the better in the opinion of all but the drivers of the German Porsches, who hold a clear advantage on sheer power if the roads remain dry.

The Porsches thus set out favored this morning, driven by Sweden's Bjorn Waldegaard and Gerard Larrousse of France, respectively first and second in 1969 and 1970.

Not Thinking About Bruins

By BOB EGELKO
Associated Press Sports Writer
LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — It's hard to take basketball coach Jerry Tarkanian of Long Beach State seriously when he says he isn't thinking about UCLA. It gets harder when, in the next breath, he starts talking about what his third-ranked 49ers will have to do if they find themselves on the same court with the mighty Bruins.

UCLA isn't on Long Beach State's schedule. "I don't blame them," Tarkanian says. But in Long Beach 30 miles south of the Bruins in Westwood, it's hard to ignore John Wooden's giants of college basketball, who again this year may stand between the 49ers and a chance at the national title.

It's also hard to ignore the Bruins nationally. In nationwide balloting in this week's college basketball poll, they received all 43 first-place votes and 860 points. They've won all 14 games played this season.

So has Marquette, ranked second. Long Beach State was rated third, followed by Louisville, North Carolina, Ohio State, Southern California, Virginia, Penn and Florida State. South Carolina headed the second ten. Then came Southwestern Louisiana, Brigham Young, Marshall, Hawaii, Minnesota, Princeton, Maryland, Northern Illinois and Missouri.

Tarkanian's unheralded team nearly beat UCLA in the NCAA regionals last year, but the Bruins squaked by 57-55—and then rolled to their fifth straight NCAA championship.

This year, however, the 49ers are anything but unheralded. They have won 15 of 16 games and rank third in the nation. They also have their fans hoping that this may be the year they end UCLA's reign.

The Top Twenty, with first-place votes in parentheses, won-lost records through games of Saturday, Jan. 22 and total points on the basis of 20 for first, 18 for second, 16, 14, 12, 10, 9, 8, etc.

Hockey League Realignment

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Toughened by the fortitude it takes to face Minnesota's sub-freezing temperatures and blowing snow, the National Hockey League's board of governors was prepared to take on the ogre of realignment today.

And President Clarence Campbell predicted a swift conclusion to the confrontation. Monday's board of governors meeting, originally expected to consider the problem of restructuring the 16-team league, started nearly two hours late because several of the governors had trouble reaching the storm-swept twin cities.

As a result, the governors tended mostly to administrative housecleaning and accepting initial payments of $350,000 cash from their new partners in Long Island and Atlanta.

"The question of realignment has been deferred until tomorrow morning," Campbell told reporters. "The thing will be resolved tomorrow. It has to be because of scheduling problems."

Part of Campbell's optimism may be drawn from the fact that 13 of the 14 governors who will decide the matter had approved a plan offered last November. That one would divide the 16 teams into four divisions of four clubs each.

If the governors can't agree on four divisions of four clubs each, then Atlanta and Long Island would be added to the existing East and West Divisions, producing two eight-club divisions.

"There are advantages to four divisions," said Campbell, "but two eights is not that bad in many ways either."

Television and Radio

NEW YORK (AP) — The manatee, or sea cow, of the Florida waters was the subject of another Jacques Cousteau undersea adventure on ABC Monday night. The huge, ugly creatures, totally interested in munching water hyacinths, are reputed to be the basis for the legend of mermaids—difficult to understand unless sailors of another age were extremely near-sighted.

With the undersea photography of Cousteau's team, the story of the placid manatee—imperiled by encroaching civilization, power boat propellers and spear hunters—was another delightful hour of television. The divers filmed the manatees feeding their young and taking siestas on the bottom of shallow, warm waterways.

The second half of the program was devoted to efforts of Cousteau and his men to return one manatee, a resident of a Florida marine museum, to his natural habitat. He had been caught in a Miami sewer and nicknamed "Sewer Sam." The 1,200-pound animal was flown to another part of the state and gradually returned to the wild. It made some needed albeit phony, suspense.

NBC, secure with the hit status of its "Mystery Movie," will use it to test a new detective hero who may make it next season with a series.

The pilot segment, to be broadcast Wednesday night, is "Cutter," the name of a black private detective, a television first. The 90-minute program was filmed on location in Chicago.

Peter Deanda who plays the title role concedes "Cutter" is getting a chance largely because a recent theatrical film, "Shaft," is a box-office success.

"Sure," he said, "we owe a debt to 'Shaft.' A big debt. I doubt however if we would be making a series in Chicago. We ran into problems. The mayor's office and the Chamber of Commerce want to hold down the

Nader Sues to Prevent Milk Subsidy Increase

By JIM LUTHER

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A consumer coalition led by Ralph Nader has filed suit to overturn an increase in the government's support price of milk, charging the Nixon administration yielded to political pressure in approving the hike. Specifically, said the suit, the price increase resulted from "requests by members of Congress and the promise or expectation of campaign contributions to the Republican party" and to various committees backing President Nixon's reelection.

Sixty-three members of Congress who pressed for the higher price received campaign contributions totaling $186,000 from three dairy lobbying groups over the past three years, the suit said, while Nixon campaign groups were given $300,000. The White House declined comment on the suit.

The suit, filed in the U.S. District Court here, contends the 6-per-cent increase in the support price has resulted in a climb of up to 4 per cent in consumer prices for dairy products. Nader said the support-price hike will cost the federal government an extra $126 million this fiscal year.

The suit grows out of the Agriculture Department's action last March 25 that raised the milk support price from $4.66 to $4.93 per hundredweight.

That means the government guarantees a farmer will be paid $4.93 for 100 pounds of manufacturing milk—the grade used for making cheese, butter and other products. If the farmer cannot get more than $4.93 on the open market, he sells to the government.

An intense lobbying campaign was launched after then-Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin announced last March 12 that the support price would remain at $4.66.

In making that decision, Hardin concluded: "The long-time well-being of dairymen requires that milk prices be kept at levels which will permit the overwhelming proportion of milk to clear through commercial channels."

Ten days later, the Nader suit says, the Trust for Agricultural Political Education, the San Antonio-based political wing of Associated Milk Producers Inc., gave $10,000 to four Republican committees.

On March 23, dairy spokesmen met with Nixon and Hardin, urging the secretary to rescind his stand-pat order.

Before Hardin backed down and raised the support price to $4.93, the suit says, 29 senators and 116 House members introduced bills to increase the price to around $5.

Thirteen of those senators and 50 of the House members received campaign contributions from dairy interests, the suit alleges.

Nader's suit called the price-hike order "arbitrary, capricious, contrary to law and based on considerations extraneous to the criteria provided by statute."

The suit seeks an order overturning the price increase and an injunction to stop payment to farmers at the higher rate.

Chicago Black Hawks, named in one of the first suits in the country charging violation of the Economic Stabilization Act, denied in U.S. District Court Monday that a 25-cent increase in program prices was in violation of President Nixon's price freeze.

Arthur Morse, an attorney representing the National Hockey League club, told Judge Julius J. Hoffman that "the Black Hawks are a Chicago institution and, in our opinion, are not in violation of any laws."

The government suit contends the hockey club raised program prices from 50 cents to 75 cents in violation of the price freeze. The case was continued until Thursday.

South was mighty upset about playing in three no-trump when there was a cinch club slam.

He wanted to know why North hadn't gone to four no-trump over his bid of three.

North, a top rubber bridge player, said there wasn't much difference between making five no-trump with 150 for aces and a club slam.

Later North explained why he had given up the idea of a slam after his partner bid two and three no-trump. His remarks should be worthwhile.

"Yes, I did suspect that we could make a slam in clubs or diamonds but I know my partner too well to fall into the trap. South is one of those players who feels he can produce miracles in no-trump."

His two no-trump call was poor. He should have bid two clubs. If we belonged in three no-trump we could still find our way there, but he was afraid I might play it instead of him.

"Once he responded two no-trump his rebid to three followed naturally. Who was I to take him out of no-trump?"

"If I had bid four no-trump as my cards really warranted, we might have reached six clubs. I doubt it. He would have looked at his heart and spade kings and if he had bid a slam it would have been in no-trump. Playing at three no-trump he would only make five. As it was we did make game."

'My Blue Heaven' Composer Is Dead

PAIM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Gene Austin, composer and singer of "My Blue Heaven" and other songs performed steadily for more than four decades, is dead at 71.

He had been suffering from lung cancer 10 months and entered a hospital last week.

Austin never learned to read music and composed by ear at a piano or electric organ. Between 1924 and 1930 the public bought 86 million copies of his records. "My Blue Heaven" alone sold 12 million.

Austin's songs included "How Come You Do Me Like You Do?" "When My Sugar Walks Down the Street," "Lonesome Road," "Ridin' Around in the Rain" and "Wedding Bells are Breaking Up That Old Gang of Mine."

Though his popularity waned gradually after 1930, he remained active until recent years, writing songs, recording and occasionally performing in nightclubs. In his 60s he boasted that his light, high-pitched tenor was as good as ever.

He was born in Gainesville, Tex., and spent much of his life in Las Vegas, Nev. In 1962 he made a try for public office, losing handily to Nevada Gov. Grant Sawyer for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

Austin was married five times. He is survived by his widow, Gigi, and two daughters, Charlotte Antelline of Hollywood and Ann Heberger of Kansas City.

Services are pending.

Pressure Charged in Resignation

By JOHN R. STARR
Associated Press Writer

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Bill L. Brown, 38, submitted his resignation Monday as supervisor of nursing homes for the Arkansas Social Services Division and charged that his superior had pressured him to put patients in a home owned by a legislator.

Dalton Jennings, the accused superior, said Brown had not been doing a good job and recently was told to correct deficiencies in his work.

Dalton Jennings, the accused superior, said Brown had not been doing a good job and recently was told to correct deficiencies in his work.

Jennings, who is chief of the social service division, confirmed that he had approached Brown about placing patients in a nursing home owned by Rep. Charles O. "Bubba" Wade Jr. of Texarkana, at Wade's request but he said he had not put Brown under any pressure.

Reached by telephone, Wade said he was sure his records would show that his two nursing homes received more welfare patients in years before he was elected to the legislature than they did last year when he was serving his first term in the House.

Brown's resignation first was reported by The Commercial Appeals of Memphis. The newspaper also quoted him as saying he believed that illegal advance payments had been made to some nursing homes for political reasons.

"If he were the nursing home administrator and knew his program, he'd know whether we did or not, wouldn't he?" Jennings said in a telephone interview.

Jennings said that he told Brown that he was dissatisfied with his work, but that he had not threatened to discharge Brown and had, indeed, hoped that Brown could begin to perform his job.

"I'm sorry he could not resign like a gentleman," Jennings said.

Brown said Jennings had told him that Wade owned a nursing home and "he can help us in the legislature."

Jennings said Brown had called him and asked about the possibility of having some welfare patients assigned to his homes.

"I asked Bill to look over his patient lists and if he had any that had no place to go, we ought to send some down to him (Wade)," Jennings said.

"There was no pressure on my part. If we had some, it wouldn't hurt to send them there."

Jennings said Wade called because no welfare patients had been assigned to his home "for months." He said that, as far as he knew, it was not improper for a legislator to do business with the state in this manner.

Wade said he has owned the Pinehurst Nursing Home for eight years and has been president of North Heights Manor for about five years.

Pressure Charged in Resignation

Cereal Firms Charged With Price Fixing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission has acted to break up the multimillion-dollar breakfast-food industry with a proposed complaint against the nation's four largest cereal manufacturers.

The commission said Kellogg Co., General Mills, Inc., General Foods Corp. and Quaker Oats Co. maintain a highly concentrated market through such practices as false advertising and price fixing.

They have "illegally monopolized" cereal promotion and production for the past 30 years, the FTC said Monday.

The proposed complaint said the four engage in "proliferation of brands and trademark production; artificial differentiation of products; unfair methods of competition in advertising and product promotion; restrictive shelf-space-control programs and acquisitions of competitors."

Kellogg replied that the FTC allegations were "based on theories that have never been tried or tested."

A spokesman said the commission "has said it is wrong to be big, wrong to be efficient, and wrong to succeed."

A General Mills spokesman called the action "legally untenable."

"General Mills will resist today's action," the company said following Monday's FTC announcement.

General Foods said it "remained convinced that the cereal industry is extremely competitive and we should know, since we have to struggle every day to maintain our competitive position in the marketplace."

The four companies, the FTC said, control 91 per cent of the ready-to-eat cereal market in the United States.

They would have 60 days to respond to the proposed complaint under normal FTC practice, then it would become final. After that, the matter may be appealed to federal courts.

The commission proposal urged:

— "Divestiture of assets, including plants and other facilities, for the formation of new corporate entities to engage in the manufacture, distribution and sale of ... cereals."

— "Prohibition of acquisition of stock or assets of firms engaged in the business of manufacturing or selling" cereals.

— Prohibition, also, of "any practices found to be anticompetitive."

U.S. Plans to Burn Plant Killer

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force proposes to burn in Texas or Illinois 2.3 million gallons of a plant killer that was banned in Vietnam after tests showed it may have caused animal birth defects.

The disposal methods were proposed in an environmental-impact statement filed earlier this month with federal and state agencies in Texas, Illinois and Mississippi.

The herbicide, code-named Orange, would be burned in commercial incinerators in Deer Park, Tex., or at Saugat, Ill., across the Mississippi River from St. Louis.

The proposal, a copy of which was obtained by The Associated Press following inquiries, is subject to comment by the agencies to which it was submitted. They have 30 days to respond. If significant controversy is aroused, the Air Force may hold a public hearing before turning in the final impact statement to the Environmental Protection Agency.

"This action is not considered to have an adverse effect on the environment," the Air Force said. "The probable environmental consequences of the proposed action will be minor or insignificant."

Orange was the defoliant most commonly used in Vietnam to strip away jungle cover concealing enemy troops and supplies.

The Defense Department banned its use in 1970, shortly after the Agriculture Department banned the herbicide 2,4,5-T—the principal ingredient of Orange—around homes, water areas and food crops. This followed laboratory tests indicating it retarded growth and caused birth defects in rodents.

The Air Force was left with 2.3 million gallons of Orange worth $16.9 million, most of which is stored in 55-gallon steel drums in Vietnam.

Although two sites are under consideration for disposal, the Air Force has not made the final selection and no contracts have been let.

Under the Air Force's draft statement, the herbicide would be incinerated at a rate of 2,000 to 5,000 gallons a day, producing a total of 44.6 million pounds of carbon dioxide, a nontoxic gas, and 12.4 million pounds of hydrogen chloride, which would be converted into sodium chloride, or common salt.

"The 'adverse' environmental effects which cannot be avoided are the generation and discharge of combustion byproducts and liquid effluent residue into the atmosphere and public waterways," the Air Force said. It added that this would "not adversely affect human health, esthetically or culturally valuable surroundings, standards of living or other aspects of life."

"The alternative of no action would maintain the stock in drums at Gulfport, Miss.; Elgin Air Force Base, Fla.; Kelly AFB, Tex.; South Vietnam or other storage sites," the Air Force said. However, the drums would gradually deteriorate and leakage would cause environmental problems, the Air Force explained.

CHEETAH CATCHER
STAMPRIEST, South West Africa (AP) — Farmer Willie Kotze is the talk of the town after catching three cheetahs by the tail. The cats had killed some of his sheep and he chased them in his pick-up 12 miles across the bush before they dropped exhausted. The cheetahs are to be sold for export.

Making Life Liveable

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things that make life worth living: New belly laughs and old love songs.

A cheering letter from home when rations are short, the top sergeant in a bad mood, and the country you're in is far away and has a bad climate.

Helping a baby learn to walk by letting it hold on to your fingers.

The sun reflected back from a thousand-windowed skyscraper, turning it into a tower of dazzling light.

Lying on a beach in August and feeling plucked at by tentacles of foam and surf.

The taste of hardines and crackers when you're really starved.

Listening to the woes of a millionaire and discovering it is really true that money alone can't always buy happiness.

The thrill of being able to read all by yourself the story of Jack, the beanstalk and the giant.

The joy of having the prettiest girl in the First Grade stick her tongue out at you during recess, but then relenting and letting you carry her books home after school let out.

Carving her initials on a tree so deep in the woods that you are sure no one else will ever see it and guess your secret passion. When you go back years later, you find that the letters are undecipherable and the tree is only 25 feet from a main highway.

As a small boy in the long black stocking era, rubbing mud all over your kneecap so that the hole you wore in the stocking playing marbles hopefully wouldn't be seen by your mother.

Glumly learning early in life that you never get something for nothing—for example, that if a grownup gave you a glass of orange juice, it was only to get you to drink the castor oil mixed with it.

The smell of rainwet lilacs on an April morning.

Visiting your cousins in the country and sleeping on a real old-fashioned feather bed.

Feeling better after throwing up your first dinner of pig knuckles, sauerkraut and navy beans.

The glory of finding out that a dog your father brought home likes you better than anyone else in the whole family.

The importance of having everyone in the Sixth Grade know that you were the only member of the class who misspelled but a single word in the entire year. The word? Aborigine.

(Editor's note: It looks like Boyle needs a return trip to the Sixth Grade.)

Looking at yourself in the mirror at 13, after expanding your chest with a breath so deep your face turned purple, and deciding you did have a build like Tarzan's.

Listening to your mother tell you what life was like when she was a small girl on a small farm in faraway Ireland, where Shamrocks grew like sunflowers in Kansas or corn in Iowa.

Sending away a boxtop and getting back 20 pictures of baseball players, including Ty Cobb and Babe Ruth.

Wondering what you'd buy first if you ever found the gold at the end of the rainbow.

Wondering if God ever took a nap or had a full night's sleep.

It is by such small things as these that our lives are greatly enriched.

Front Drops Temperatures

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A fast-moving cold front has dropped temperatures to January levels in Arkansas after a few days of near record high readings.

Temperatures in the state this morning ranged from near 20 in the north to the low 40s south, some 45 to 50 degrees below Monday's highs. El Dorado was the warmest spot in the state Monday with a reading of 82 degrees. It was 20 degrees at Harrison this morning.

Highs today and Wednesday should be in the upper 30s north to near 50 south. Slightly warmer readings are expected by Thursday.

The cold front failed to produce any shower activity in the state but the chance of precipitation is expected to increase by Thursday.

Soviet Commanders to Enter Pleas Friday

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — A Soviet fishing fleet commander and two ship masters are to enter pleas Friday in U.S. District Court on charges of illegal intrusion into U.S. waters.

The officers were in charge of two Russian herring boats seized Jan. 18 by the U.S. Coast Guard in the Bering Sea.

Facing federal criminal charges for conducting illegal fishery support activities within the 12-mile U.S. zone are Vladimir Artemov, Igor Bovtun and Nikolai Pavluk.

Artemov is commander of an 80-foot herring fleet working in the Bering Sea. Bovtun and Pavluk are skippers of the Soviet vessels seized slightly more than 9 miles from St. Matthew Island, about 200 miles from the coast of western Alaska.

The Russians were arraigned Monday before U.S. District Court Judge James VonDerheydt after being flown from Adak Island in the Aleutians. They were released on their own recognizance to the custody of Albert Ambrossov, vice consul from the Soviet Embassy in Washington, D.C.

Also pending in federal court is a civil complaint filed by U.S. Atty. G. Kent Edwards which asks forfeiture of the ships, their gear and stores.

"The vessels were involved in a transfer of fish from the Kol'yvan, a trawler, to the processing ship Lamut," Edwards said before the arraignment.

The judge, speaking slowly through an interpreter, advised the Soviets of their rights. He told their attorney, James Wamnamaker of Anchorage, that he would accept pleas before Friday if they were ready to enter them.

The three men sat quietly, nodding their heads and answering "da" or "yes" when asked through the interpreter if they understood the court procedure.

Artemov and Bovtun, both clean-shaven young men, wore blue uniform blazers with gold patches and buttons. Pavluk, middle-aged and slightly balding, wore a dark uniform. None made any statement to the court and they refused to meet with newsmen.

If convicted, the men face a maximum fine of $100,000 each, plus confiscation of their vessels, gear and cargo.

Cattle Skin Disease

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department says an outbreak in Texas and Oklahoma of a cattle skin disease, psoroptic scabies, is the worst to hit stockmen in 30 years.

Some 137 livestock inspectors have been trained by USDA and state animal health officials to help cattlemen combat the disease, the department said Monday.

Federal and state quarantines, restricting cattle shipments, are currently in effect in 34 Texas Panhandle counties and 16 in Oklahoma, officials said. An estimated 185,000 cattle are being treated from herds known to have scabies in the quarantine areas, the department said.
